

ENF621 Evidence-Based Policing (3 credit hours) Course Syllabus

Course Description

This course will introduce students to the body of knowledge and research in evidence-based policing. Evidence-based policing involves decision making through careful examination and evaluation of the best available evidence from multiple sources and applying critical thinking skills to successfully appraise the evidence while addressing answerable questions. This course will distinguish evidence-based practices from opinion and assumption in the field of policing. Students will gain an understanding of the need to develop their own evidence-based practices and learn to use the best available evidence to inform and challenge policies, practices, and decisions in their own professions.

Course Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course, you will be able to:

- 1. Define evidence-based policing and assess its value/importance to the field of criminal justice.
- 2. Apply the concepts, processes and principles of evidence-based policing to cultivate solutions to common problems law enforcement officers encounter in the field as well as within their respective agencies.
- Evaluate and compare information from multiple sources while distinguishing fact/evidence from opinion.
- 4. Theorize and evaluate how Systematic Reviews provide the best available information as it applies to Evidence-based policing.

Time Commitment

Effective time management is possibly the single most critical element to your academic success. To do well in this online class you should plan your time wisely to maximize your learning through the completion of readings, discussions, and assignments. Because of our accelerated, seven-week term, TU online courses are designed with the expectation that you dedicate a little over six (6) hours per credit hour to course activities and preparation each week. For example, for successful completion of a three-credit, seven-week online course you should reserve roughly twenty (20) hours per week.

To help plan your time and keep on track toward successful course completion, note the distinctive rhythm of assignment due dates:

- All times assume Eastern Time (GMT-4).
- 2. Weeks begin at 12:00 a.m. ET on Monday and end at 11:55 p.m. ET on Sunday.
- 3. Unless otherwise noted, initial assignments or discussion posts are due by 11:55 p.m. ET on Wednesdays.
- 4. Additional assignments or follow-up discussion posts are due by 11:55 p.m. ET on Saturdays, and
- 5. Major assignments and reflections are typically due by 11:55 p.m. ET on Sundays.

Learning Activities

Each week we'll have a class discussion on several topics related to your reading assignment. You'll also be required to complete one assignment each week. The assignments are comprised of a variety of activities. You'll be assigned a traditional research paper, asked to develop a research questionnaire, asked to complete a SWOT Analysis, asked to complete a case study and two quizzes. Each discussion and assignment will match up nicely with course outcomes and weekly learning goals.

Tips for Success

Online learning requires self-discipline and self-direction. As seekers of the truth, we should be willing to challenge one another's academic work in a spirit of respectful comradery. Your course is a place for you to grow as you benefit from the expertise, experience, and diverse perspectives of your instructor and peers. Constructive feedback will challenge you to stretch your own thinking, thereby expanding your knowledge and understanding.

To get the most out of your learning experience, you should actively engage (participate) in ALL course activities. Course elements are arranged chronologically. To complete a week, simply work your way "down the page" through all of the course materials and activities.

Your Instructor Will Expect You to:

- Thoroughly review orientation materials (Start Here) within the first 48 hours of the term.
- Monitor your TU email account daily for important updates and announcements.
- Take ownership of your learning experience and act in a proactive, self-directed manner.
   That means:
  - Fully participate in all learning activities.
  - Complete assignments as described in rubrics or other instructions.
  - Submit all work on time and in the specified format (e.g. APA format for citations).
  - Utilize and incorporate instructor provided feedback to improve your work.
  - Ask questions so you can better understand course material or assignments.
  - Use the highest standards of intellectual honesty and integrity. For more information, see the TU Library guide: Digital Literacy: Netiquette and Internet Safety.
  - Treat others respectfully and demonstrate "netiquette" (online politeness and respectfulness) at all times. TU celebrates cultural uniqueness and expects all students to be considerate and thoughtful throughout their learning experiences.

You Should Expect Your Instructors to:

- Post an introductory announcement/email at the beginning of each week to provide updates and help you prepare for the week's activities.
- Maintain an active and engaged presence in all course activities and throughout the course.
- Respond to your emailed questions within 48 hours, if not sooner.
- Clearly communicate any absences or expected non-participation due to extenuating circumstances. For example, "I will be traveling to attend a funeral this week and may not be able to respond to questions or participate in forums for a couple of days."
- When grading your work:
  - clearly indicate their grading approach (what they like to see in submitted work as well as what types of errors they tend to penalize more harshly),
  - thoroughly review and evaluate your submissions in a timely manner (in less than 5 days for most assignments), and
  - provide constructive feedback that indicates the strengths and weaknesses of your work and provides suggestions on how you can improve your performance on future assignments.

 Advocate for your success as a learner and help guide you toward successful completion of the course activities and most importantly, attainment of the course learning outcomes.
